

SCHOLARSHIPS

The International Summer School on GT and Qualitative Methods provides for two scholarships; the amount of each scholarship will correspond to the fee.

The scholarships will be for:

- 1) Students who'll present their papers into one of the 6 Surgery Sessions: the Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons will be devoted to the direct involvement of the participants, through the presentation of their works (please, check the Program).
The papers should deal with participants' research and professional activities. Here there are the different possibilities and topics. Papers can:
 - contain the descriptions of the research projects which are going to be realized by participants, to prior discuss their aims, methods, procedures;
 - show researches in progress, in order to present and discuss their methodological choices, and the paths of data collection and analysis yet realized, and to gain suggestions and opinions from discussants and the other participants;
 - describe the research projects that are in an advanced state of realization, of which participants would like to talk about in terms of the first results achieved, the (grounded) theories constructed, the public use of the data, etc.
 - propose methodological and epistemological issues, and theories linked to the Grounded Theory perspective, to deepen and analytically develop.

AMONG PARTICIPANTS WHO PRESENTED THEIR PAPERS, WILL BE PRIVILEGED (SECONDARY CRITERIA):

- 2) Participants whose cv shows the relevance of using GT and Qualitative Methods for one's own researches and professional activities.
- 3) Participants coming from developing Countries, and/or from Countries far from Italy (the Summer School's location).
- 4) The younger participants (age).
